HOMEGROWN FESTIVAL – A MONTHS FESTIVITIES COME TO AN END

The 3rd annual Coromandel HOMEGROWN Festival, staged throughout the month of May, has come to an end.

We'd like to say a big thank you to all the members, businesses and community groups who have supported this years festival. With a programme twice the size of last years and activities ranging from cooking demonstrations to home grown menus, to art trails and art workshops as well as live music, markets, food trails and the inaugural tractor bash, the programme was sure to please.

We must also express our appreciation to Thames Coromandel District Council, Pub Charities and Tourism Coromandel, as without these sponsors the marketing and promotion of this festival would have been extremely difficult.

We're now eagerly awaiting the May visitor statistics to see if one of our main objectives, being that we increase visitor numbers to the Coromandel during a typically quiet month, is achieved.

With the 2010 festival program due out in March we suggest you keep the festival website bookmarked and we look forward to seeing you back in the Coromandel for HOMEGROWN 2010.
